Sasha's journey into sound started at very tender and early age. In the begining he was playing bass guitar and electric guitar (some rumours say even air guitar, but no one is speaking about it) in various bands in his early teens. During that time the knowledge and experience he gathered and assembled gave him a great stepping stone when he inevitably encounterd electronic music in the 1999 and soon after that moved to production.

In 2009 and 2010, he left his shadowy lair of digital releases and presented his music to the public with his first CD releases, including his debut album, Wry Figments. Many more releases followed and in 2012 he signed his second album Brain Dissolver with Hyperflow Records.

He participates in many music projects such as the Dual Barrel, Mammal Footwork & SolidState Project. Stranger things have happened but he never wanted to fly on a magic carpet - but making soundtrack for that ride... That's a challenge.
